SUBJECT: 2022 Cross Country State Finals Precautionary Update
DATE: November 8, 2022

Greetings,

This correspondence comes to you as a precautionary update in reference to the 2022 Cross-Country state finals scheduled for Thursday, November 10th, and Friday, November 11th. The meets will proceed as scheduled on Thursday, November 10th. The threat of severe inclement weather conditions, as a result of hurricane Nicole, may affect the schedule for Friday's November 11th meets. In the event that adjustments have to be made to Friday's schedule, here are the preliminary thoughts:

- Friday meets will be postponed until Saturday, November 12th (which is the next available date).
- The start times will remain the same for each meet.
- The facilities will be made available as the originally scheduled times for athletes' warmups.

While this may not be an ideal adjustment, it is one that allows the best opportunity to complete the 2022 Cross-Country state finals. We will continue to monitor the weather through Thursday, November 10th, and will make a decision for Friday, November 11th, by 3pm on Thursday, November 10th.

In either scenario, you will be notified as to whether adjustments will be made or not. Thank you for your patience as we navigate the situation.

Sincerely,

Jerome Singleton, D.D.
