COMMISSIONER'S NOTES

Greetings, the Fall sports season is quickly coming to an end. Last week we crowned champions in the sports of girl's tennis and volleyball. Great competition and outstanding sportsmanship.

To those member schools that have completed their Fall sports season, congratulations and I hope that it has created great memories. As we all know, success is not only measured in wins and losses on the playing area. As athletic coaches and administrators, positively shaping the lives of student-athletes is always a win for education-based athletics.

As student-athletes, discovering and growing your abilities physically, mentally, socially, and emotionally is always a win for education-based athletics. If you have experienced success in these areas, you have earned the right to be proud of yourselves.

To the member schools still competing in the Fall sports season, congratulations and I wish for your continued success. As the days/weeks continue, the competition gets tougher. You have all been battle tested and have risen to the occasion. I ask that you continue to compete with great effort and sportsmanship. Also, I hope that great memories are being created through these experiences. Remember, you are your story. Continue to create it well.

As we continue to close out on the Fall sports season and begin the Winter sports season, be reminded that great sportsmanship continues to be a goal of the member schools. To achieve that goal, we must continue to stress its importance in education-based athletics.

This past week there were 11 schools with ejections for unsportsmanlike conduct. Five of those schools are still competing in the playoffs. Four of these schools, all who are still competing in the playoffs, have multiple weeks with ejections for unsportsmanlike conduct. I trust that the schools will reiterate the importance of good sportsmanship before, during, and after competition.

Unsportsmanlike behavior is a choice. Coaches and athletes must resist the temptation of allowing their emotions to dictate their actions in an unsportsmanlike way. These actions in no way serve the teams or represent the schools well.

To the member schools with no ejections this week, continue to do a great job. Let's close out the Fall sports season and begin the Winter sports season with high expectations for sportsmanship and make it a priority. Continued success and have a great week.

Week One of the SCHSL Football Playoffs and our Full Coverage Scoreboard on Twitter was a success. Thanks to all Athletic Directors who supported this with PA announcements at your games. Once again, this week, host schools will receive an email with PA copy to utilize. We will also be contacting schools with video boards about possibly supporting these announcements with graphics that can be provided and customized to fit your specifications. And again, when posting scoring updates on school Twitter accounts, please include #FullCoverageScoreboard in your tweets to assist our team in score aggregation.
